I am my mother (Rachel's) daughter. My name is Sally. My mother may have left many years ago but I carry her with me - in spirit. I have always been told I look like her. What a lovely problem. I'm sorry I cannot come to Montana for the funeral. Let us find love to heal the worlds wounds. We can do so much with love and understanding.

My Mom had some tragic choices to make in her life. I missed her much of my life but found a way to forgive her and we shared many good chats in her later days. We must all find a way to love again, no matter what hand we are dealt. May she rest in peace. I will always miss her. Her story is one of women's limitations and I'm grateful that women have more freedom and choice today.
